Dear Students and Parents,

After many delays, I am delighted to announce the fall 2018 launch of the LHMI website. Security (electronic and personal) is of paramount importance. The general site (for which each family will have a unique password) will include the instructor biography and credentials, the studio calendar, various studio policies, and student awards, among other useful information. Eventually, the site will include some still photos and occasional video clips, documentation especially valuable for older students, as they gather evidence of quality extra-curricular activities when they begin the college application process. Please return the internet policy slip below (by 7 September). If you (parents and/or students) wish to add comments to your previous ones (from last year), you may update things as you prefer.

Thank you all for sharing your selves and your families with me on the wonderful music journey!

Sincerely,

Lorraine Hale Robinson
